The European Nuclear Young Generation Forum (ENYGF) is the fourth meeting of European young professionals from the nuclear field.

The meeting consists of lectures given by invited recognised experts, technical visits of nuclear facilities, and social events. It will enhance networking and experience exchange between recognised experts, young professionals, and students, as well as among young people interested in nuclear field from the whole Europe.

The ENS YGN in cooperation with Czech Young Generation will hold the European Nuclear Young Generation Forum in 2011 in Prague with focus on:

- promoting nuclear science and engineering among young people and students
- emphasize the importance of communication, knowledge and experience exchange between professionals
- advertising nuclear and nuclear-related fields
- presenting works of young people from the whole Europe
- increasing a social understanding and acceptance of nuclear energy
